A football manager simulator, in which the player is in charge of a football team and his goal is to win the championship. Cheats The player can edit and create team line-ups, players and their attributes. Additionally, he can edit the rule set, and test his squad against other players (standings are available). The game has a "Pick a Team" mode, where the player chooses a team to control (up to 4 players) in a tournament style where the end-of-the-season matches mean nothing. Another mode allows you to select a map to begin playing. There are three modes: "Conquer the World" (your team will be in the top league of the world, playing other teams of similar strength), "Challenge League" (challenge other teams in your area, to find new players), and "Bootcamp" (playing other teams in order to get more experience). There are many tournaments to play in, including the "World Cup", which can be played online or offline, or in a single-player campaign mode. The game comes with a built-in match engine that has many scenarios and options to play in. Customised scenarios can be made. The engine has a simple but powerful and realistic AI. In addition, ChampMan has a thriving community of users who can share their mods and bug reports and feature requests. A little while ago the development team was working on a script that allows user to edit their roster. This took a little while to complete. So, I have taken the liberty of adding this to the mod, just for the fun of it. It is not guaranteed to work. 1. Open the file "Players.dat" in a text editor. 2. Go to the list of players in the squad, and change the listed position to the number you wish the player to be. 3. Save the file. This will replace the position with the number of the selected player in the squad. (2) The game is more than 10 years old, and I've kept it updated with new mods, of course there is much much more than 10 years old in the game itself. (3) And yes it's still the only football manager that has been added to the Mod. Rest assure, your clubs name will be in there somewhere Hey! Just a quick "thanks", for getting an FC game back up and running again 82157476af
